POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The glaring inconsistencies, inequalities and injustices, which have characterized many of the wartime dictums emanating from the national capital, are sowing the seeds of a political revolt in America which may put an abrupt end to the New Deal era when 1944 rolls around.

Evidence of the gathering political storm, first noted in the sweep of Democratic defeats at the November elections, has multiplied rapidly during the intervening weeks—and the farm belt, particularly, has become bitterly critical of Washington officialdom, due to asserted bungling of the manpower problems and wage and price controls.

The recent statement of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard that farmers must work from "dawn to dusk" to meet the food production problem—in face of a previous statement by President Roosevelt that the 40-hour week would be continued in urban war industries, as workers grew tired and inefficient if they put in longer hours—served to point up one of the inconsistencies in New Deal handling of the war production effort.

Farmers, as a matter of fact have been working from "dawn to dusk" throughout the war emergency—averaging from a 60- to a 70-hour week, with no overtime for extra hours—and they bitterly resented Wickard's whip-cracking gesture, particularly in view of the fact that Washington had turned down appeals for a longer work-week in city industries.

On top of that came another announcement from Washington that farmers who failed to meet their production goals during 1943 would be penalized by stiff subsidies. As a consequence of these mounting irritations, farm leaders, during recent congressional and legislative committee hearings in California, "blew their tops" and said some things about Washington officials which are wholly unfit to be printed in the congressional record.

Senator Sheridan Downey, at one point in the stormy hearings, was moved to remark "I wonder that you farmers can contain yourself."

There may be a consequence, however, in 1942 farm labor was drained away

Concert Given by School Orchestra At Club Meeting

The Kiwanis club was entertained Tuesday with a fine concert by the Campbell Union Grammar school orchestra under the direction of Richard Gordon, the instructor of instrumental music at the school. Ira Abbott was the day's chairman.

Tuesday evening the board of directors for this year, 1942, were guests of the president, J. E. Murdock, at dinner at Lucca's cafe in Santa Clara, following the last regular meeting at 6 o'clock of the board for the calendar year.

Next week the members will adjourn after the luncheon, to the high school where the a cappella choir, assisted by the high school orchestra will present its annual program for the club.

Another feature of this entertainment is the presentation of religious tableaux by the art classes under the supervision of Miss Mary Lewis, art instructor.

Friends and guests of Kiwanis members are invited to the program which will begin promptly at 12:45 p. m.

On Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 22, the club will sponsor the annual Christmas entertainment for the grammar school pupils, which will be held this year in the Campbell Union High school auditorium. The difference in cost over the previous theater parties will be contributed to some relief effort.

Campfire Council Meeting Held

A Campfire Council meeting was held at the home of Miss Helen Stray on Thursday evening. Also invited were members of the sponsoring committee from the Sigma Sigma club, Miss Barbara Davis, Miss Rachel Spradling and Mrs. David Ribble. The Sigmas, who sponsor the group of older grammar school girls led by Miss Edith Crank, assisted by Miss Jane Gerrans, have offered to buy Campfire jewelry for all girls in that group who pass their rank during this school year.

Members of the council were asked to visit a Campfire or Horizon club meeting sometime during the next month. There are groups meeting every Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons in the Campfire room at the Scout hall on North Third street.

Senator Sheridan Downey, at one point in the stormy hearings, was moved to remark "I wonder that you farmers can contain yourself."

There may be a consequence, however, in 1942 farm labor was drained away

FILL OUT AND RETURN

Form is no longer the human figure, it's questionnaires from Washington! Who would have thought it would take a whole "joint committee on reduction of non-essential Federal expenditures" to come to our rescue!

Senator Vandenberg, co-author of a resolution calling for an investigation of the necessity for the questions which business men and private citizens must now answer, declares it would require the services of an Indian crystal gazer to fill out some of these forms. Life has grown so complicated these days, or is it the forms that have grown complicated? Which ever it is, Washington has to have the answer.

It has to know, for instance, everything about fish oil. Chairman Byrd of Virginia reports that the questions concerning fish oil supplies covered four feet of paper. He refused to put it in the pile of questionnaires under consideration because it "was just too big." Senator Byrd also noted that farmers would have to read 24,000 words to fill out the order for certificates of war necessity regarding the farm trucks. And the number of times citizens have to tell their ages these days! We hope it won't cause internal revolution among the new corps of women workers in the nation!

Take Form No. 1-1071-PLOF-5-NOBU which the properly impressed committee members were asked to consider. No, let's not. Let's let Washington take it to play with for after all, it only concerns cosmetics. Maybe the solution is what has been suggested so often lately—probably by someone who has just filled out a questionnaire—that some of the thousand of able-bodied employees in Washington might join the Army or Navy and stop working so hard!

BYE, BYE, BLACK SHIRTS

Will the Italian people soon purge themselves of Benito Mussolini? For more than 20 years, he has strutted and blustered his way across the world's stage. For all these years, his own people and the peoples of the world have had to endure his bombast and vainglory. Benito was less than 40 when he marched on Rome. Now he is nearly sixty, no longer the energetic, self-confident blusterer. Will he lead the procession of outgoing dictators in World War II?

Winston Churchill's invitation to the Italian people to revolt against the Fascist regime and make a separate peace would not have been made to deaf ears. Daily broadcasts from the United States and England to Italy repeat that invitation.

The "bombing" of Italy with propaganda leaflets nearly two months ago began the Allied "invasion." The shattering of Genoa, Turin and other cities by Allied bombers gave the people of Italy a taste of the punishment they and their Axis ally meted out to the Ethiopians, the Greeks and Yugoslavs. The Italians were not born fighters. They were singers, artists, loving the swank and glitter of uniforms, yes, but preferring the undrawn sword! The bombing has had its salutary effects.

In World War I, the end began with the collapse of Bulgaria and Ferdinand's abdication on Sept. 30, 1918. The collapse of Turkey, Austria, and Germany followed in quick succession until Nov. 11. The crisis in Italian morale, emerging more and more clearly out of the fog of European possibilities, doesn't astonish anyone. Perhaps least of all does it surprise Mussolini himself, whose career in ranting with gestures has faded into that of a tired, wheezing, aging

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Time of Peace" by Ben Ames Williams.

"You think another war is coming?"

"Sure."

"How soon? My Tony's not yet twelve years old. I hate to think he'll have to get into it."

Jerry said in dry, ironic passion: "A good many other people feel the same way, but they can't help themselves.

Who was it said: 'In time of peace prepare for war.' "

The above quotations appear in the third chapter of Mr. Williams', deep and thought stirring novel, wherein he succeeds in depicting an accurate facsimile of what the average father and son were struggling through in the ten years from 1930 to 1940 when our country was groveling in the active subconscious — struggling to quiet the fear that war was coming, and striving to be prepared.

The author explains the origin of "time of peace." "In September 1939, on the outbreak of war, I decided to write a book about a father and son who were close to one another and to make that story run from the son's boy-hood up to our participation in the war; the title to be

"Time of Peace;" the ironic connotation being that in time of peace we prepared for war by having children and loving them and rearing them —only to give them at last to the armed forces."

Some two and one half years later the book was finished. The connotation had broadened and deepened and the background had been enlarged by the impact of events. The story of Mark and his son, Tony, the central theme of the book, was stronger, as father and son face the world together when Tony's mother dies, and Tony's and his father's loyalty survives every test.

To all who are familiar with Williams' character depictions, forceful events and obvious commonplace circumstances which combine to form a "Williams' book, only to mention that Mr. Williams has another publication on the market starts a rush for the book shop. His latest effort is rated very, very high!

Girl Reserves Invite Everyone to Snowman Shuffle

Biggest news on the Girl Reserve calendar this week is the "Snowman Shuffle," a dance to be held Saturday, Dec. 12, at the community hall from 8:30 to 12:30 p. m.

Iota Gamma Rho, the Junior Girl Reserve organization, is putting on the dance, with Connie Dondero acting as chairman of arrangements. Miss Barbara Davis is faculty adviser to the group.

Wear sport clothes, everybody, and be there, say the girls. Admission is 35 cents, 50 cents for couples.

Chi Gamma Rho, the Sophomore Girl Reserves, have been conspicuous on the campus during the past week because of their initiation, which required them to be completely "natural." They finished off the week by going bowling in San Jose Friday. In their last initiation they swept the sidewalks in San Jose with a tooth brush.

Both Chi Gamma Rho and Miss Petersen's senior group are making ditty bags for the soldiers in the armed forces. The Chi Gams are also culling feathers to make pillows for the Red Cross.

Campbell Gets New Coach

Walter L. Hill has come to Campbell High to take over the work of Coach Drummond.

Majoring in physical education and minoring in science, Mr. Hill attended San Jose State college. He spent his high school days in Watsonville. Since his graduation from State, he has been in business in San Jose.

Mr. Hill, who is already getting acquainted with many of the students, comes here highly recommended by the college authorities and by other people who know him.

Basketball Practice Starts for High Buccaneers

Campbell Buccaneers have their eyes on the basket this week as basketball practice gets under way with Ralph Noddin coaching the team.

Campbell has lost several of its best players this year, the result being that the boys will have to fight harder than ever to keep their place, but according to Coach Noddin, we can still hold a high rating.

There will probably be games with Los Gatos, Santa Clara, San Jose, and possibly one or two others including Lincoln.

The transportation problem seems to be the biggest worry at present, and because of this there has been no definite schedule made out as yet.

Only the unlimited and 130 class will play this year.

0 against the Buccaneers.

Rumors had it that the Santa Clara team was terrific, and only the optimists believed we could do better than receive a bad beating. The game proved otherwise with Santa Clara dragging themselves up to a measly 14-point score against our fighting team.

Santa Clara kicked off, and a great deal of a thrill followed as the Buccaneers continually fought off attacks as close as four yards to a goal. Only twice did they break through the terrific defense the Campbell team put up.

The starting line-up was Evora, E; Keith Wilson, T; Courtney, G; Pettis, C; Carringelo, G; Rohde, T; Bill Wilson, E; Miranda, QB; Del Grande, HB; Koerner, HB; Barbaccia, F.

MORE DETAILS GIVEN IN WORK SURVEY

Of the 602 summer work reports received to date there were 500 students who worked for a stated amount of pay; 102 worked for pay but were indefinite as to the amount, according to Miss Eunice Reader, whose class tabulated the results. More students worked on ranches than any other place.

The amount earned by the 500 students who stated their total earnings for the summer was $79,549.65. The average for each of these 500 students was $159.10 and the average amount earned per student for the school was $132.14.

The majority went to work on their bicycles, in their friends' or family's cars, or just walked.

There are still 222 students working after school and on Saturdays.

Laughing Around the World

Who the Stranger Really Was

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE ambitious citizens of a certain English city were giving a pageant commemorate of the ancient history of the community—the Roman invasion, life among the Saxons, the coming of the Normans, the habits and customs of the early Britons, all of it. Pains were taken to insure proper costuming of the characters typical of each succeeding period, and the people of the countryside were impressed as super-numeraries, the principal parts being taken by hired performers.

But the weather marred the success of the affair. It was raw and cold and rainy. Late in the afternoon two lady visitors came upon a shivering bare-legged individual clad in a short tunic, with a skimpy purple cloak swinging from his shoulders, a sword girded about his middle, sandals on his feet and a helmet upon his despondent head. "Oh," cried out one of them, "you must be Appius Claudius."

"No mum," said the stranger. "I'm un'appy as 'ell!"

Over the Top by New Year's Is the Plea of Secretary Morgenthau

November 13, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary—every pay day—in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every pay day.

This appeal is directed to two groups of Americans:

First—the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent or more.

Second—the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Henry Morgenthau Jr.
SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

Backyard Poultry House Is Planned

Plans for a backyard poultry house which will house a dozen laying hens have been drawn by the University of California Agricultural Extension Service. A circular with pictures, drawings and materials needed, as well as plans, has been prepared by W. E. Newlon, extension specialist in poultry. This circular may be obtained from the College of Agriculture at Berkeley, or from any farm adviser.

A model of the backyard poultry house has been made, and is on display in the lobby of Giannini Hall, on the Berkeley campus of the University. It is a shed house, six feet long by five feet deep, with a small outside wire covered pen or sun porch. It will house ten heavy breed hens, or twelve Leghorns. The birds are confined so that they cannot destroy yards or gardens, and are protected from cats, dogs, rats and birds. Lists of materials and detailed directions for construction are given.

A flock thus housed in the backyard says Newlon, should lay 1,400 to 1,500 eggs a year, an egg a day per person for a family of four. In addition, these hens will provide sev-
